

THE BRITISH FAIR.

1770. N.B.V.C.

ALLEGRETTO

II.

Chiefs throughout the land victorious,
Born to conquer and to spare,
Were not gallant, were not glorious,
'Till commanded by the fair.

III.

All the works of worth or merit,
Which the sons of art prepare,
Have no pleasure, life, or spirit,
But as borrow'd from the fair.

IV.

Reason is as weak as passion,
But if you for truth declare,
Worth and manhood are the fashion
Favour'd by the British fair.

For the GUITAR
